Paramedic Move Protest Fails

A last ditch attempt by county residents in the southeast area of greater Yorba Linda to prevent the paramedics from moving on December 2 from Station 10 here to Station Two in Placentia, went for naught Monday night.

Representatives of several homeowner's associations met with Bob Hennessey, fire protection analyst for the County Fire Department, at the home of Mrs. Pat Hilzer.

Hennessey was standing in for County Fire Chief C.M. Downs who was occupied with the San Gabriel Mountain fires.

The Yorba Linda Knolls, Lynridge and Woodgate associations were represented at the meeting.

Hennessey recounted how the move tied in with the county taking over the Placentia fire service. He said that statistics revealed in a comprehensive study showed that 67.3% of the calls answered from Station 10 are for medical aids in Placentia. Thirty percent of the calls are in Yorba Linda and remainder for the county area and Anaheim.

The ideal practice to situate a paramedic unit and personnel is in the center of an area with 60,000 to 64,000 population and Station Two meets that requirement. It is located at Valencia and Yorba Linda.

Hennessey pointed out that Yorba Linda will be gaining additional fire coverage when the new temporary station is installed, probably in February, at the Edison Substation at Fairmont and Yorba Linda.

One fire fighting unit and equipment and a four man crew will be stationed at the site on an around the clock basis. He said first aid capabilities and the presence of a resuscitator will be offered at the station.

The County fire official admitted that Yorba Linda's growth potential will probably mean transferring the paramedics back here or adding a new unit to cover the city.

Mrs. Hilzer was mainly concerned with the added time for the paramedics to respond to a call in the area after the move. Hennessey said that the goal of the program is to be able to respond to 80% of the area covered within five minutes. He

'Red Alert' For Fires

Although California Division of Forestry personnel stationed in Yorba Linda have been busy fighting Angeles National Forest fires in Tujunga and Mt. Baldy, Yorba Linda is well covered, according to Capt. Mike Van Bibber.

He revealed that a four man Santana Task Force has been brought here from the northern part of the state. Two men are from Butte County. Their rig has been in the city for a month.

The other two men are from the Tehama area which Van Bibber described as "about as far north as you can get in the state." They drove to Yorba Linda with their equipment.

The entire Forest Service is on "red alert" because of the extreme fire danger. Van Bibber said Tuesday that winds from the east are between 15 and 20 miles per hour, humidity is high and the weather is "hot and dry."

All days off have been cancelled for Division of Forestry personnel until the fire danger abates.

Van Bibber had praise for the cooperation of local residents. "We have had some situations where grass and brush fires could have been dangerous," he said. He added, however, that "good weed abatement practices have proven worthwhile" and kept fires at a minimum and easy to control.

conceded the move will exceed that figure by "possibly 20%" in time.

Asked bluntly, "What can we do to stop the move?" Hennessey said that "it can't be stopped." He said the decision has been made in the upper echelons (Board of Supervisors) and can't be reversed.

Recommend Solution At Corner

A solution to the traffic problem at Mountain View and Ohio has been worked out and will be recommended by the Traffic Committee to the City Council. However, the plan does not have unanimous approval.

Although there is considerable sentiment for a three way stop sign at the admittedly dangerous intersection, the solution advocated by Consulting Traffic Engineer Hank Mohle will be recommended.

This calls for installation of a stop sign to regulate traffic entering Mountain View off Ohio. There will also be islands installed to substantially slow down westbound Mountain View traffic continuing along that street and traffic turning north on Ohio from the west.

A stop sign already exists for east bound traffic before entering the intersection with Mountain View. Rejected was a proposal that westbound traffic entering Ohio between the islands be regulated by a yield sign.

The problem in the area has been the subject of discussion and some controversy for a lengthy period of time.

Gunman Hits Market

A robber, apparently armed with a revolver, stole $323 cash from the Kountry Market, 18171 Imperial Highway, shortly after 5 p.m. last Wednesday.

Bradley M. Carter, 66, a clerk at the store, told police he had just put a cash drawer into the store safe and was still holding the currency in his hand when a pistol was thrust in his face.

Thinking it was a joke, Carter said, he looked up. The young man holding the gun said, "Hand it over or I'll shoot," snatched the bills from Carter's hand, and headed for the store's south entrance.

Then Carter, collecting his wits, yelled, "Stop!" The gunman, paused, looked back, then fled out the door. Other clerks, alerted by Carter's shout, confirmed his description of the suspect and agreed that he was holding a pistol.

A police search of the area failed to turn up the suspect, described as a white, male, 20 to 24 years old.

Teen Citizen Contest

Each year the Junior Woman's Clubs throughout Orange County honor outstanding senior girls through a Teen Citizen Contest. This year's winner from Yorba Linda will be honored at the Junior's January meeting and awarded a $100 scholarship.

All club Teen Citizen Contest winners will be honored at a Youth Recognition Luncheon in February. A District Teen Citizen will be chosen from this group and presented with another scholarship.

Applications for this year's contest are available at Troy and Esperanza High School counseling offices. Qualified Yorba Linda senior girls are urged to enter.

The deadline for applications will be Friday, December 19. Please contact Mrs. Karen Galan (993-5938) for further information.

Orange County Politics Under A 'Shadow Government?'

Cecil Hicks, Orange County's newsworthy District Attorney, gave Placentia a look behind Orange County's Shadow Government last week in a speech before the Placentia-Yorba Linda Republican Assembly at Rembrandt's Restaurant.

The colorful DA touched on: False registrations in the recent Congressional campaign of Jerry Patterson, former City Attorney for Placentia.

The common thread of the Shadow Government running through Dr. Louis Cella's political activities.

The Board of Supervisors efforts to take 22 investigators including organized crime, major fraud and special investigators, away from the district attorney's office.

Contributions to the members of the Board of Supervisors.

Retaliation against the district attorney.

And the public's difficulty and apathy in getting its essential news.

Hicks, who is a native of Los Angeles, a graduate of Occidental College, the University of California at Los Angeles, with a degree in law from the University of Southern California, spoke about the recent investigations that have been conducted in Orange County politics from his office:

"The total number even staggers me," he told his audience. "There isn't another county I know of...New York should be doing as well...that have this many people that have been prosecuted for some kind of political misconduct."

"The name of the game has nothing to do with political philosophy, it has to do with power.

It has to do with control. People like this are not interested in philosophy. They are interested in power. They are interested in control," Hicks alleged.

In a long series of indictments that has reached even into Washington politics in various cases, Hicks had a few remarks on the false registration of party workers in the Jerry Patterson congressional campaign, which was successful. Patterson was not connected to the charges.

"Some people did not view that as very serious and the people by and large were pretty straight people. And the sentences imposed would indicate that," Hicks continued.

"I personally look upon false registration as a fairly serious thing...at least it is if we stop enforcing it."

"If you go back to the machine politics in the east, it is a short step from the false registration...that is, they do not live in the district at all and simply register at an address where they do not live, and vote in that district. Not just for their favorite candidate, but they vote for everybody else in that district. Taxes in the district, schools in the district, the whole bit."

"To me it is a short step from there to voting the gravestones. It's not that much different. It's the town drunk that you see down there and well, he'll never make it to the polls, so I'll run out and vote for him."

"It's a very short step from one to the other. And for us to tolerate it and overlook it and say, well, we don't care where you vote, that's the next step."

"These people plead guilty." Hicks, who is in his second elected full term, after an appointed one, outlined an inundation of activity that began about 2½ years ago.

Investigations have been conducted into irregularities in a campaign of former Assemblyman Kenneth Cory, but not involving Cory; into the county assessor's office, including one department head, who is a resident of Placentia; into Congressman Andrew Hinshaw's successful campaign.

Currently the district attorney's office is investigating the Shadow Government threaded through Dr. Louis Cella and the campaign of Supervisor Robert Battin, who allegedly has received large contributions from Dr. Cella.

On Dr. Cella and the Orange County Supervisors attempts to take 22 investigators from the district attorney's office.

"He (Dr. Cella) put a quarter of a million dollars into Cory's campaign. Those were big stakes. I had no idea until the indictment had been returned that there was any connection between Hinshaw and Cella, between Vallerger (Jack Vallerger, former county assessor) and Cella."

The district attorney said when it was first mentioned to him that the board of supervisors might take away some of his investigators that he did not take it seriously. Since that time, the supervisors have taken action to do so but the effort is currently blocked in the courts.

"Theoretically they took away all of my organized crime investigators; all of my major fraud investigators; all of my special assignment investigators and homicide. Now, I'm convinced to this day that homicide was a toss in to make it look

Imperial Traffic Problems Probe

The inability to obtain state approval of requested traffic signals at dangerous intersections along Imperial Highway has resulted in a proposed interim plan suggested by the Brea Police Department.

Motor Officer Bill Hoeft presented a plan to the Traffic Committee dealing with the problem at Imperial and Bastanchury. Following discussion it was agreed that involved local and consulting agencies would make a unified study of the entire section of Imperial within the city limits.

Also advocated was a joint endeavor by city government, the Chamber of Commerce, the school district, citizen's groups and individual citizens to bring pressure upon the state to acquire the desired signalization along Imperial.

Officer Hoeft, who patrols Imperial on his motorcycle which makes him familiar with the traffic problems, exhibited a drawing of a plan that he felt would alleviate the situation at Bastanchury.

Because that street crosses

Imperial at an angle, Hoeft said that accidents result because of motorists failing to yield.

His plan calls for a double-double yellow line on Imperial that would require motorists to use Valleyview and Prospect as turnoffs, plus taking circuitous routes to make direction changes in a more safe manner.

Left turn pockets would be established for turning into Valleyview and Prospect and also to allow for U-turns on Imperial.

Hoeft admitted that he had no cost estimated and that there are questions of engineering that the city and state would have to answer but declared that until signals are obtained his plan appears to be the "only answer."

Manny Puentes, Automobile Club representative and committee consultant, said that he believes the state would be happy to work with a small group to solve the problems.

The prospects for signalization were estimated as a minimum of one year and possible longer because of the need for study and engineering.

PUSD-Yorba Linda Merger Still In Study

The possible merger between the Yorba Linda School District and the Placentia Unified School District, which would require Yorba Linda to withdraw from the Fullerton High School District, is still under study.

Dr. Sterling Fox, Superintendent of the Yorba Linda District, said that a perusal of the possibilities of the plan, once interrupted, is continuing through the office of the superintendent of the Orange County Department of Education.

Hal Mason, a representative of the county body, is now at work on the project to ascertain whether the merger is feasible, Dr. Fox stated.

The first problem of the possible three way switch is Fullerton's willingness to release the Yorba

Linda district, from which Yorba Linda students receive their high school education at Troy High School, it was pointed out at previous meetings.

If a release is not obtainable from Fullerton which would be acceptable to the other two districts as well as Fullerton, the merger would reach an impasse.

The Yorba Linda District is now an isolated island, surrounded principally by the Placentia district, which it must cross to reach Troy. Newer eastern developments in Yorba Linda are in PUSD which goes to the county line.

A high school site, located in Yorba Linda, is also a consideration in the discussions.

Police Beat...

Sunday, Nov. 23

Brea Police concluded three weeks' of investigation Sunday with the arrest of two youths, one a Yorba Linda resident, on suspicion of burglary.

Taken into custody at his residence was Charles Ray Robinson, 18, of 4548 Via del Prado. Kenneth William Trombly, also 18, of 1521 Benmore #3, Anaheim, was arrested at a Brea address.

Robinson had been arrested 10 days earlier on a charge of attempted automobile burglary arising from a non-related incident.

According to police reports, Kenneth J. Lewis, of 4558 Via del Prado, a neighbor of Robinson's, learned last month that his home had been burglarized when Master Charge called him to say that an unauthorized party had attempted to make a purchase with his credit card.

Investigating, Lewis discovered that burglars had taken not only the Master Charge card, but an Arco Oil Co. card, a $20 watch, and $500 in jewelry.

Police obtained a description of the suspects from the store where they had tried to use the card. The attempt had reportedly taken place within two hours of the burglary.

According to Lewis' wife, a youth matching the description given by the store clerk had been seen in the neighborhood.

Trombly was allegedly living with Robinson at the time of the burglary. Wednesday, Nov. 19

A $350 microwave oven disappeared from the 7-11 Market, 19752 Yorba Linda Blvd., Yorba Linda, sometime between 6 a.m. and 4 p.m. last Wednesday.

Hicks....

good," Hicks disclosed.

"All the others are in some respects interrelated. Special assignment investigators are the ones that work the Grand Jury. Organized crime do just what you think they do. Our narcotics investigators zero in on big narcotics sellers. That business is often interrelated. That is the area they took away and purported to say...You are not in this business anymore."

"I still decide how I use the investigators in my office. I work for you (the public). I don't work for them (the supervisors)."

On current matters: "Mr. Cella gave to a newly elected member of the Board of Supervisors, I should say loaned, $140,000. Now I'm not saying that because he accepted the money he's a crook. I'm not saying any member of the Board of Supervisors is a crook. We ultimately indicted a supervisor. That tended to get them excited too. They all feel threatened. I don't know exactly why that is."

"There are political contributions in one form or another to every single member of the Board of Supervisors, sitting right now, from Lou Cella. That does not make them crooks. That does not make Lou Cella a crook."

"But at some point folks, we've got to say that one person can have too much influence on a body like the Board of Supervisors."

On the subject of political contributions: "I don't think that the contractors and the builders, developers should be able to contribute to the members of the Board of Supervisors."

"Incidentally, that is why one supervisorial race in the primary came to $191,000. I heard a congressman speak in a state of shock because he said, that both sides in a congressional district spent $250,000. He ought to come here and try to run for the board of supervisors. He wouldn't make it through both the primary and the general election."

"The reason that it is building up is because the contractors, the builders, the developers feel almost a compulsion to contribute to the candidates and I think it is extremely unhealthy."

In a law enforcement conference in Washington, D.C. which Hicks attended, a speaker said... "OK, anybody here. If you take on organized crime or political corruption, this is what you can expect to have happen to you."

"They will try to get a Grand Jury investigation going on you." ("Gee, that's already happened," Hicks noted.) "You will be subject to vicious personal attacks and effort made to destroy your credibility. ('Already happened to me,' Hicks.) They will try to politicize the Grand Jury. They will try to communicate to the Grand Jury that what you're doing is a political thing. They will make claims of political spying."

"Allegations of perjury will be made against your investigators," the speaker continued. ("I've had them called goons, Gestapo agents," Hicks stated.) "Then they will accuse you of the mishandling or abuse of confidential funds. ('I've been through that,' Hicks.)

"I wish he had added a seventh so I could anticipate what is coming up next," Hicks mused.

The speaker told Hicks that it is as though a handbook is being exchanged throughout the country on how to take on the people who are taking them (the politicians) on.

On local matters: "It's no pleasure to prosecute," the district attorney continued. "But I think that is what I am supposed to do. I take very seriously the public trust. You hired me to do a job and if I'm not willing to do the job then I get out."

Why have these problems mushroomed?

"If you could control this county you would have an awful lot going for you. I think the public is lazy about getting its news and therefore it's difficult to inform them. A good number of people rely on television. Then they take the newspaper. They read the features, they read the sports page, the comics, Dear Abby. They read the headlines."

"There are seven VHF television channels in Los Angeles and not one does any kind of adequate job covering 1.7 million people (of Orange County). The city councilman in Glendale who gets a hangnail gets more attention than we do down here. So a lot can be done down here with a little cloak of darkness over it."

"The day to day light doesn't get shed unless the papers do it over and over and over again. Then people start saying: 'Hey, what's going on here?'"

"Orange County must be run by the people."

On occasions this column grumbles, gripes, pouts, scolds and criticizes. Then again it praised, lauds, laughs and bestows compliments.

This week it is going to be reflective in accord with the observance of Thanksgiving. With everyone else who cares enough to pause and count their blessings, I'd like to do the same.

My mother claimed Indian blood among the other strains which flowed within her. She could take us out in the countryside and show us an old graveyard to back her claim.

If that blood strain had not been entirely diluted by the time I came into the world I suppose I can claim some kinship with the Indians. And possibly if there was some family inter-marriage with the Pilgrims, maybe I could say there is some of the blood of the first settlers coursing through my veins.

Maybe that's why I have a strong sense of history. Countless trips to Plymouth on a "Sunday ride" in my childhood always left me with a feeling of awe when I looked at Plymouth Rock.

Now docked at Plymouth is a replica of the Mayflower in which the Pilgrims braved the Atlantic to make the journey to freedom. A visit to the ship and the awareness of the incredible conditions with which they put up should make anyone of us, in this affluent age in which we live, thankful for what we have.

Those pioneers who knew not what faced them when they would reach their destination had to be among the bravest group of people who ever lived. Imagine their motivation, a trait we now seem to have rediscovered.

There are few of us who, in one way or another, has not pioneered. For some it has been the deviation from what our parents, grandparents and others before them did and expected us to do.

For others it has been a severing of family ties and transplanting roots in places other than our birthplaces.

Not everyone has blessings he or she can count on Thanksgiving Day. For far too many, there is nothing but hopelessness and despair.

But for the majority there are those things in our lives for which we can be thankful if we will but take the time to reflect upon them.

After sleeping in late, having a bountiful dinner, watching television, visiting relatives or friends or whatever we choose to do on Thanksgiving, wouldn't it be fair to spend at least a few minutes looking around us, assessing what we have, and silently offering up a prayer of thanks?

Bicentennial Bike-A-Thon

In the spring of 1975, every service organization in Yorba Linda started to think about choosing a suitable project for the Bicentennial. The Friends of the Yorba Linda District Library chose, as its Bicentennial project, the acquisition of the television film series, "America".

"America" is a series of 13 one hour films, produced by Time-Life Films and narrated by Alastair Cooke. These films illustrate the history of our country from its earliest beginnings.

The method chosen to raise the money for this project, was a Bike-a-thon, to be held on December 13th. The theme of the Bike-a-Thon will be, "Ride for 'America'."

Irwin Fried, vice president of the Friends of the Library, was chosen Bike-a-Thon chairman. During the past few months, Fried contacted the following organizations who have enthusiastically agreed to participate:

Boy Scout Troops 99, 742, 762 and 778.

Girl Scout Troops 117, 485, 609, 676, 769, 834, 1032, 1527, 1546, 1547, 1549, 1766, 1943 and 1958.

Youth groups from the following churches: Calvary Baptist Church, First Baptist Church, Free Evangelical Church, Moravian Church, St. Martin's Church and United Methodist Church.

In addition, members of DeMolay and Jobs Daughters may also join in. An unusual and exciting addition will be approximately 25 horseback riders of the Yorba Linda Country Riders, who will participate at the same time, along a route suitable for horses. Individual members of the Brea Posse and the El Rodeo Riding Club may also join the horseback ride.

Sgt. Larry Baker of the Yorba Linda Police Department helped in planning the Bike-a-Thon route and also enlisted the services of Explorer Scout Troop No. 823.

This troop will be in full uniform, acting as traffic controllers throughout the route. In addition, the troop will operate a pick-up truck and have radio communication along the route to help any rider whose bicycle might break down.

The checkpoints along the route will be monitored by nine hardworking community volunteers;

Letters To The Editor

Voter Obligation

In Agreement

Letter to the Editor:

You are obligated to register to vote and to vote at every election for your representatives, for Yorba Linda School Board, Water Board, City Council, Orange County Supervisors, California State Governor and legislature and National Legislature, and for your party nominees for President and the election of the President.

The next election for three members of City Council will be March 2, 1976. The election of your party nominees for President will be at the April primaries 1976. The President will be elected in November 1976.

You cannot vote unless you register to vote. You can register without cost to you and can vote without cost to you. In Yorba Linda, you can register to vote at City Hall on any day of the week except Saturday or Sunday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

You can register also at one of the special booths that may be set up in a grocery store or other place by a Deputy Registrar. You must be 18 years or over and a resident of Orange County, California.

If you have voted at the last Presidential Election, the one in 1972, and have not moved, you do not need to re-register. Most people re-register because they have moved to a new address.

The Registrar of Voters must have the new address of voters because he will mail information about the candidate to the voters who are registered in Orange County, California.

Registration lists in the office of the Registrar are cleared of all names when the person did not vote for President.

You should re-register if you wish to change your party, or your name. If you have married since you last registered, you should re-register under your married name.

We urge you to register to vote NOW. Get ready for the next election of City Council Members. They represent you. They make decisions that are vital for your interests.

You can't do nothing! You have too much at stake! You make the decisions that affect your survival. Don't cry! Vote!

Dear Editor

I am favoring Mrs. Jacqueline Harrison's letter regarding business signs (Nov. 19).

I myself have written to you expressing my views on Yorba Linda's future. I am just happy somebody feels the way I do about preserving what's left of our natural land, not only in Yorba Linda but in our country.

I am not trying to start a debate with anybody but I believe people that share Mr. Duncan's views are living in the wrong city.

If they wish heavy traffic, flashy signs, extreme development of doll houses, etc., I suggest they move to L.A., New York or even to Santa Ana or Westminster.

These people are the ones that turn a city into an "open house" or should I say a "living room community." Yorba Linda is known for its horse trails and for its easy living, which I enjoy very much.

I am aware that Yorba Linda is growing but, like everything else, some things change for ever but not for better.

I agree with Mrs. Harrison's statement that gracious living can't be measured in dollars and cents. Supporting local businesses and expressing our views to the people and our city government is a major step in keeping Yorba Linda a "bedroom community."

This may be only my opinion but it should be everyone's concern in keeping our country style living.

Sincerely,
Rudy L. Gonzales

Dear Editor

When I lived in Placentia we would often see police around the neighborhood but now that we live in Yorba Linda all I see is the police giving tickets to local people who supply their salaries.

I think they should be patrolling on school routes looking for people trying to pick up kids and patrolling in small streets looking around and to remind people they are there to help.
